COCO'S BIG DISCOVERY

In a colorful garden, there was Coco, a caterpillar. Coco loved exploring flowers and chasing butterflies.

One sunny day, Coco wanted her favorite strawberry, but it was gone! All the fruits were missing! The garden looked sad.

Coco decided to find the fruits. She found tiny footprints and crumbs. "These are clues!" Coco said happily.

Coco met Barry the ladybug. "I'm a detective finding fruits!" Coco said.

Together, they followed the clues and met new friends. Luna, the sleepy butterfly with wings like a birthday cake.

Finally, the clues led them to a big oak tree. On a branch sat Sam, a fluffy squirrel with a bushy tail, munching on a giant peach!

"Sam!" Coco said. "Why take all the fruit?"

Sam looked surprised with a mouth full of berries.

"Whoops!" he squeaked. "I was making a picnic, but I took too much!"

Everyone giggled. "Maybe we can share the leftover fruits for your picnic, Sam?" Luna said nicely.

Sam's face lit up.

"That's a great idea, Luna!" he chirped.

From that day on, Coco explored everywhere with her new friends. She learned being curious is a superpower and even a wiggly caterpillar can be a hero!

Remember, always wiggle, explore, and share adventures with your friends!
